FAQs

- Landscape Design School (LDS) is a series of four courses presented by distinguished lecturers on landscape design, methods, history, theory and analysis. LDS is open to the public. The courses do not confer professional status.
- This course is certified by National Garden Clubs, Inc. (NGC) that mandates the Course requirements. Each course consists of lectures, readings from the text, the course booklet and other readings. Tours of designed landscapes may be included in the curriculum.
- LDS benefits anyone who wants to enhance their knowledge of landscape design—personally, for civic projects or as an introduction to a future career. It is a prerequisite for GCFM members who wish to become a Consultant of the prestigious Landscape Design Council. (LDC) LDS also serves as credit for Consultants to refresh their credentials or attain Master Consultant status.
- While optional, all students are encouraged to take the exam. Passing two exams provides eligibility for becoming a Provisional Consultant. Passing four exams provides eligibility for becoming a Landscape Design Consultant. Refreshers do not take the exam.
- A student may start with any course. To receive credit for Consultant status, four courses must be completed in seven years. More than one course may be taken a year.
- Attendance at all lectures and any Field trips is required to receive credit. Unfortunately we are unable to excuse absences or early departures.
- The exam is on the assigned readings, lectures and Course Booklet. The lectures supplement the readings and do not teach the text. The Course Booklet is distributed the first day of class, therefore it is important to read the text prior to attending class and taking the exam.
